What our clients are saying.

"Our goal is to provide clear and accurate orthopaedic information in a way that patients, families and caregivers can easily understand. We have added new illustrations, animations, and videos to supplement the articles. The new responsive design allows viewers to access orthopaedic information on any platform—desktop, mobile, tablet, and smart TV."

Stuart J. Fischer, M.D.
Editor-in-Chief

"Adage is hands-down the most qualified, responsible, and adaptive development firm that I have ever worked with, coming from 15 years of experience on both the client and vendor side. They not only have expertise on individual platforms and systems, but are able to analyze and optimize the relationships between those systems...this is a complex and often undervalued capability, and for us it is Adage's highest value."
